The University of Queensland is one of Australia's top research-intensive universities, addressing many of the cultural, economic and social challenges facing the world today. UQ continually builds on its global reputation in key areas such as energy, sustainability, water, health, food security and social equity through an emphasis on high-quality, interdisciplinary global collaboration with public and private organisations.

International university rankings highlight the excellence of the University's research performance. In 2017, UQ maintained its 55th rank globally in the prestigious Academic Rankings of World Universities (ARWU). UQ is one of only two Australian universities to be included in the global top 60 of more than 10,000 universities worldwide.

UQ was also ranked as one of the top 50 universities in the world in the QS World University Ranking (47), the CWTS Leiden Ranking* (38), the Performance Ranking of Scientific Papers for World Universities (=41) and the U.S. News Best Global Universities Rankings (45).

UQ placed well within the top 100 in the Times Higher Education World University Rankings (65).

Research income remained strong, with UQ receiving $368 million in research funding income in 2016, the second-highest total research income for the year to be received by an Australian institution. This total includes Australian competitive grants, industry funding, Cooperative Research Centres and other public sector research funding—a strong indication of the commitment and quality of UQ researchers. Governments, industry and private benefactors are acknowledged for sharing in the University's vision for research excellence and its success in attracting research funding.

Australian Research Council (ARC) funding

The University continued to perform well in attracting ARC funding commencing in 2017, despite the declining amount of ARC funds being awarded through the major Discovery Projects and Linkage Projects programs.

Discovery Projects

The University received $21.8 million in new funding for Discovery Projects, ranking fourth nationally. The total number of new projects awarded was 55, with UQ maintaining its cumulative number one ranking in total dollars awarded over the last five rounds. In addition, the University secured $975,000 for two Discovery Indigenous Projects.
